Mrs. Charles McPhail of Somerville, Mass., accompanied by a friend, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Dixon.

There will be no circle meeting at the Congregational vestry this week, as the young people wish to attend the county Christian Endeavor convention at South Berwick on Wednesday.

Rev. Irving F. Barnes of Portsmouth will speak in the South Eliot Advent Christian church this evening in connection with the meeting conducted by Evangelists Kent and Dyer. A large party will accompany Mr. Barnes, coming on the seven o'clock car. The services will open at 7.30.

40,000,000 BUTTONS TO EUROPE

One Shipment From The Morley Button Factory

The largest shipment of buttons ever sent from this country to a foreign land, was recently loaded from the plant of the Morley Button company in this city.

The lot was twenty-one and one-half tons, comprising 46,780,000 buttons and were shipping to Germany. This establishment, one of the city's leading industries, is growing every year and once more been obliged to make additions to its plant.

Portsmouth is pleased at the prosperity which has marked this company, and hopes that there will be lots of such shipments as was consigned to its agents in Germany.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL

SIXTY FOUR HAD THEIR FIRST COMMUNION

A Measure to Fit The Needs of The Country

Washington, D. C., June 20.—The incidental reference of Senator Burton, of Ohio, to the river and harbor appropriation bill as a "Pork Barrel" because it happened to have 286 congressional districts represented in the distribution of the funds provided for river and harbor improvement, called forth a characteristic expression from Senator Nelson, who said of the bill: "I regard it as one of the fairest ever passed by congress. In my 15 years on the commerce committee of the senate, and having in that time dealt with the rivers and harbors of the country, and a conference on a number of the bills in that period, I believe the measure just before me as the most equitable and best distributed that congress has ever passed. No appropriation is included in the bill not fully warranted and justified."

Chairman Alexander of the rivers and harbors committee equally as emphatic said that manner in which the bill was made up dissipates the "Pork Barrel" myth. Of the 407 items in the bill when it left the house 138 or about one-third were for maintenance; as many more for continuing works already under way and as many for new work. It was Colonel Alexander's idea that the annual appropriation for postoffices and post roads would be as much entitled to the designation of a "Pork Barrel" as the river and harbor bill, because the varied appropriations carried in the measure benefited every section of the United States.

There was a most impressive scene at the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Sunday morning at the children's mass, when sixty-four happy children received their first holy communion. Rev. Edward J. Walsh, P. R., administered the sacrament and the junior choir rendered the music for the service. In the evening the children were received to the confraternity of the Sacred Heart. At this service there was a large attendance of parishioners and the regular choir gave a special musical program in connection with the same.

MARILLA RICKER TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Has Sent Check for Pirmary Fee and Will Conduct a Campaign.

Concord, June 20.—All doubts as to whether Marilla M. Ricker of Dover is to actually be a candidate for the governorship of New Hampshire have now been dispelled. Mrs. Ricker has forwarded a check, payable to the secretary of state, for $100, necessary for having her name entered as a candidate under the new state primary law, which is to be tried this fall for the first time.

The check was forwarded through Mrs. Ricker's attorney in this city and will be followed by a declaration of platform principles.

She is now preparing to leave San Jose, where she spent the winter, and will soon be back home in her native state, to take the platform. By many of her friends it is believed that Mrs. Ricker's candidacy will serve emphatically to argue the woman's cause of equal rights, for which she has fought for 50 years.

She has declared herself under the law as a republican. She was the first woman ever to offer a vote at the state election. This was in Dover in 1871. She has offered the straight republican ballot at each election since.

Mrs. Ricker was the first woman to seek a diplomatic post. She sent in her application, with strong endorsements, to President McKinley for the position of minister to the United States of Columbia, and President McKinley himself was inclined to appoint her, but some of his advisors hesitated. In 1898 she was opposed to the reelection of Congressman Orlan A. Sullivan of New Hampshire and spoke publicly with vigor against him. Out of her antagonism developed a desire to seek the nomination herself, and thus she established another precedent for the national house of representatives.

She was the first woman lawyer to be admitted to the bars of the district of Columbia and of New Hampshire. She was also the first woman to be appointed a special commissioner in connection with the department of justice for the district of Columbia.

NEW CASTLE

The Vicisitudes of Our June Weather

Summer Visitors and Trips by New Castle Folks

New Castle, June 20.

The weather experts inform us that we may expect better weather in the near future. So far there has been no June corresponding to the popular significance of that name. It has been a month of extraordinary climatic vagaries. The weather, while it may have retarded some crops seemingly has had no effect on the wedding crop. The weather, nor no edict of society can stop them. Therefore let the sea of matrimony be filled with the crafts of new bridal couples, whether it is June or any other month in the year, they will always be happy if they will only follow this old marriage maxim: "Don't wear loud to one another, unless the house is afire."

The Sea Breeze cottage which opened June first has won a good number of season guests. Mrs. Mary Osgood and Miss Edith Osgood of Manchester are the latest arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen C. Randall, who have been the guests of relatives have returned to their home in Hampton.

Miss Mercedes White has gone to Portland to pass the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilliam of Chelsea, are the guests of Mr. Elmer Watson and family.

Mr. Harvey Frost of Somerville is the guest of Mrs. Nellie A. Card and family.

Miss Maude H. Trefethen is visiting relatives in Boston.

The formal opening of the Wentworth this week will mark the beginning of the gay season in New Castle. The cottages and smaller hotels opened early in June, but not until the Wentworth with its music and all sorts of gayety can the season be said to be on with a boom. The house will be informally opened when the New Hampshire Bar Association will hold their annual meeting. Exercises will be held in the afternoon and evening.

Lawyer and Mrs. R. H. Harding of Portsmouth passed Sunday with relatives.

Mrs. William H. Rodding is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. White.

Mrs. Charles S. Flanders, who has been passing a brief outing with relatives has returned to her home in Alton.

Dr. Sutor and family of Washington, D. C., have arrived and opened their attractive summer home.

Mrs. Stanley Harrison and daughter Dorothy of Portsmouth are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Giles.

Miss Bianca Cogswell, Portsmouth, passed Sunday with A. O. Larkin and family at the Benton cottage.

Mr. Eben Yeaton is reported to be slowly improving.

Mr. George Hogue and family of Brookline are occupying the attractive Osgood cottage.

LYNN SONS AND DAUGHTERS

They Are to Hold a Meeting on Wednesday Evening

Lynn, Mass., June 20.—Chairman Mead and Secretary H. M. Goodrich for the committee on the July 4 return to Portsmouth, N. H., of the sons and daughters of that city now living in Lynn, announce that a meeting will be held on Wednesday evening of this week to arrange for the appearance of the Lynn delegation on the great day. It is hoped to go with the special train carrying the Boston delegation.

DON'T DO IT

With a sigh of regret, the housewife compelled to clean and fill oily lamps, takes up her task as a part of her household duties.

But what a relief to get rid of this everlasting smell of kerosene and constant dread of fire in her home!

What a relief to be free from such drudgery and danger—to be able to glory in the absence of soot and smell and in the hot summer time to avoid the heat in the evening.

Don't do it when an electric current is within reach.

Every housewife can put these unsatisfactory conditions behind her if she will.

PAYS FEE AS CANDIDATE

Filed Declaration With Secretary of State of New Hampshire, in Which She Asks That Her Name Be Placed on Official Republican Ballot—Was First American Woman to Attempt to Cast Vote

Concord, N. H., June 20.—Marilla Ricker's "money talks," and with the receipt here of a cashier's check on a California bank for $100, made payable to Edward N. Pearson, secretary of state, all doubts and speculations whether she will or will not be a candidate for the governorship of New Hampshire are dispelled, for that amount covers the fee prescribed by the new primary election law. Accompanying the check came the written "declaration," also prescribed by law, written in Mrs. Ricker's own handwriting and signed "Marilla M. Ricker."

Her declaration of candidacy reads as follows: "I, Marilla M. Ricker, declare that I reside in Ward 4, in the city of Dover of the county of Strafford, state of New Hampshire, and am a qualified voter therein; that I am a member of the Republican party; that I am a candidate for nomination for the office of governor, to be made at the primary election to be held on the sixth day of September, 1910, and I hereby request that my name be printed on the official ballot of said Republican party as a candidate for such nomination or election."

"I further declare that if nominated as a candidate for said office I will not withdraw, and that if elected I will qualify and assume the duties of said office."

(Signed) "Marilla M. Ricker."

The check and declaration are now in the hands of her personal attorney, in this city, awaiting the specified time of filing, July 8.

In brief, Mrs. Ricker means business. She will run. She believes the state of New Hampshire would be the better for a housecleaning. She is herself a lawyer and declares there is nothing in the statutes of New Hampshire that prevents her from taking office should she receive a majority of the votes cast.

She is a suffragette and was the first woman to attempt to cast a vote in the United States. This was half a century ago nearly, and she has appeared at the polls regularly every year since and tendered her vote.

A property holder, she has paid taxes under protest. "No taxation without representation" has ever been her slogan.

She was the first woman to be admitted to the bar of her native state and of the District of Columbia. She was the first woman to seek a diplomatic post. She was also the first woman to run for congress.

BAY STATE FARES WELL

Six Cities Will Benefit by Items in Public Buildings Bill

Washington, June 20.—Six members of the Massachusetts delegation in the house are shaking hands with themselves over the contents of the omnibus public buildings bill reported by Representative Barthold of Missouri, which contains an aggregate of $545,000 for Massachusetts public buildings out of a total of $19,288,500. The members and the bills they succeeded in getting reported favorably are:

Mr. Lawrence, $100,000 for a site and postoffice building at Greenfield; Mr. Weeks, $70,000 for a site and postoffice building at North Attleboro; Mr. Threlk, $115,000 for a site and postoffice at Waltham; Mr. Gardner, $25,000 for a site at Newburyport; Mr. Roberts, $10,000 for a site at Reading; and Mr. Greene, $225,000 for a site and building at New Bedford.

TEN CHINESE GRADUATES

Young Orientals in Lawrence Academy Proved to Be Apt Students

Groton, Mass., June 20.—Of the eighteen graduates from Lawrence academy ten of them were Chinese boys. The boys will enter advanced technical schools in the fall.

The Chinese are being educated at the expense of their government as a part of the demands made by the United States after the Boxer uprising. The United States insisted that China should send at least 100 boys to this country every year to be educated, and two years ago these ten boys arrived at Groton, and proved to be apt students.

German Aviator Killed

Stettin, Ger., June 20.—Robt. of Munich, who, in 1902 won the 100-kilometre bicycle championship of the world, and who had many other championships to his record, was killed while making an aeroplane flight. The machine fell from a height of 250 feet.

DARED DEATH TO LAND

Government Starts Brave Russian Stowaway Back to Native Land

Boston, June 20.—With two desperate attempts to escape to his credit, one by jumping into Massachusetts bay and the other by breaking out of the immigration station on Long wharf, Max Selling, the most determined stowaway who ever arrived in America, was deported on the Leyland liner Winifredian.

Selling was handcuffed and taken from Long wharf to the pier in a closed carriage, accompanied by immigration inspectors Burke and Hartland, and put on board an hour before sailing time. He was closely guarded by the finer officers until the steamer was far out at sea, for Captain Shepherd was taking no chances of having the big Russian make another dive over the side. Scores of women among the outgoing saloon passengers on the Winifredian wondered at the handcuffed man as he walked up the gangplank.

"It's a shame he didn't get away," they declared, when the man's extraordinary near-escapes were related to them.

BIG FIGHT IS ASSURED

Neither Johnson Nor Jeffries Fussy About Location of Arena

San Francisco, June 20.—"We'll fight somewhere on July 4. We don't care much where,"

This was the gist of the interviews given last night by both Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson. Neither principal seems to be affected by the action of the governor in preventing the championship battle from coming off in San Francisco.

"What difference does it make where we fight?" asked Jeffries. "If we have to go to Nevada, it will be as fair for me as it will be for Johnson, and I guess we'll both be in shape, no matter where the ring is pitched. They'll find me ready."

Johnson was equally positive. "I don't care if I fight here or in Kalamazoo," said the negro champion. "I'll be ready, and from the reports I get from Jeff's camp, he will be, too. There'll be a fight on July 4, be sure of that."

TAFT AFFIXES NAME TO RAILROAD BILL

His Favorite Measure Becomes a Law of the Land

Washington, June 20.—President Taft has signed the railroad bill, the first of the administration measures to have been enacted by congress. The house rushed through this measure and another administration bill granting statehood to Arizona and New Mexico and they were awaiting the presidential signature when Mr. Taft returned from his trip to Villa Nova college.

The president glanced through the two bills which, especially the statehood bill, will be connected in history with his presidency. With a smile he wrote at the bottom of the most important bill passed since the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, "William H. Taft." The president will make through the statehood bill today.

STAR BOARDER SKIPS

So Does Landlord's Daughter, and He Asks Police to Find Them

Middleboro, Mass., June 20.—Miss Eleanor Pittsley, aged 18, of Rock Village, left her home Saturday morning, as did Edward McLaughlin, aged 22, and the police of Middleboro have been asked to locate them.

A couple answering to their description visited the city clerk's office in New Bedford Saturday, but it was closed. It is believed that they have now gone to Brooklyn, where they will probably try to be married, although the father of the girl has asked the police to prevent the wedding if possible.

Pittsley is a farmer and his wife keeps a private boarding house. McLaughlin, who is a shoe operative in Middleboro, has been the favored boarder at the Pittsley home for two years.

The girl's parents are irate over the disappearance and hope to be able to prevent the marriage.

BARGE IS HAUNTED

Ghost of Former Skipper, Man Who Is Left of Famous Old Liner

Seattle, June 20.—Sailors say that the famous old liner Melanoe, which was dismantled and converted into a big barge, is haunted. Captain and Mrs. Walter Tinn, who were in charge of it, have been transferred, at the request, it is said, of Mrs. Tinn, who found it unpleasant to live on a ship manned by a ghost.

The ghost is supposed to be that of the former skipper of the Melanoe, the celebrated Captain Willis, who commanded the big ship some ten years ago.

McFarland Knocks Out Goldswain

London, June 20.—Packer McFarland of Chicago knocked out Jack Goldswain of London, the English welterweight champion, in the third round here. The men fought for a purse of $3500.

ARE LINING UP FOR THE FRAY

Politicians in Massachusetts Are Already Busy

HARD FIGHT IS PLANNED

Importance of Fall Election Increased by Senatorial Contest and Redistricting—Republican State Convention Will Have 238 Fewer Delegates on New Apportionment—Middlesex County Will Sustain Loss of 46

Boston, June 20.—Both the Democratic and the Republican parties are preparing to wage an energetic campaign for control of the legislature next winter. Both have begun operations, the Republicans having prepared their auxiliary committees and the Democrats having already held one meeting.

There are several things in connection with next year's legislature that make the fight for membership in it of considerably more importance than in any other campaign for many years. One of these is the United States senatorship, and even at Republican headquarters in this city there is no longer any inclination to take Congressman Butler Ames as a joke.

Besides that is the fact that a redistricting of the state into congressional districts will be ordered by congress next winter, following the census that is now being compiled. Both parties have their eye on that redistricting, and the party that has supervision of it is certain to have an immense advantage in the election of congressmen during the next ten years.

There will be 1578 delegates in the Republican state convention next September, but 238 less than a year ago, when there were 1816, comprising the largest political convention ever held in Massachusetts.

The apportionment, which was made public at state headquarters, is on the basis of one delegate to each 75 voter cast for governor last November, and every county in the state, with the exception of Dukes and Nantucket, has suffered a cut in its representation. The former county stands pat with eight delegates and the latter with three.

The largest loss sustained by any county is in Middlesex, where the roll will be 46 smaller than in last year's convention. Suffolk comes next with a loss of 37, while Essex is trailing close with a loss of 36, and Worcester is not far behind with a cut of 33. Barnstable comes closer to maintaining its standing than any of the mainland counties, it losing but one delegate, while Hampshire loses only 2 and Franklin 8. Berkshire loses 1 delegate, Bristol 19, Hampden 21, Norfolk 16 and Plymouth 14.

Middlesex, as usual, still maintains first place in the apportionment, being entitled to 355 delegates, Suffolk second on an apportionment of 229.

CHANLER WEDS CAVALIER

Plea For Early Wedding Accepted by Grand Opera Singer

Paris, June 20.—Robert W. Chanler of New York, grandson of the late John Jacob Astor, and Mlle. Lin Cavalieri, the grand opera singer, were married by the mayor of the eighth arrondissement of Paris. Only the witnesses of the contracting parties were present.

The marriage was originally planned for autumn. Mlle. Cavalieri had engagements to sing in Russia and South America, but she became slightly ill and her physician advised against both trips.

Mr. Chanler followed the singer to Paris, and when he arrived here he pressed for an early marriage. In this he was successful, and they waited only until the necessary papers for the bride could be obtained from Italy.

TRUCK OWNERS' GREAT LOSS

Gang Has Stolen $92,000 Worth of Goods During Past Three Months

New York, June 20.—According to statements made in court by a special officer of the New York Truck Owners' association, $92,000 worth of goods has been stolen during the past three months from trucks standing in the streets by an organized gang.

William Tuohy and Arthur Hanlon were arraigned and locked up for want of bail, charged with driving off a truck last week loaded with $15,000 worth of goods.

Stranded Near Ocean Graveyard

ENGINEER FORGOT RUNNING ORDERS

Collision Results and Three Persons Are Killed in Crash

Norwich, N. Y., June 20.—A passenger train loaded with emigrants, on route to the west, was wrecked at Parker. Three passengers were killed and twenty-five were injured, several seriously. The wreck occurred when the emigrant train dashed into a locomotive running light.

The engineer and firemen on the train escaped serious injury.

The engine running light was returning to Sydney from Guilford summit. Engineer Kingman had orders to wait at the summit until the second section of No. 5 had passed, but he forgot his orders and was dropping back to Sydney, when at a sharp curve he collided with a heavily loaded passenger train, which was running about thirty miles an hour, up the heavy grade. The light engine, making about twenty-five miles, struck it head on.

ADOPTED AT AGE OF FORTY

Pittsburg Woman Becomes Legal Daughter of 70-Year-Old Spinster

Pittsburg, June 20.—In common pleas court No. 2, Judge Hayman presiding, an order of adoption was issued which makes a woman 40 years old the legal daughter of a woman aged 70.

The elder woman is Miss Mary L. McIntosh, a very sick woman, of Pittsburg, who relates in the petition for the adoption that she was never married and has no heirs; that Ida S. Leigh, aged 40, has never married, and has lived at the home of Miss McIntosh for thirty years, or since the death of Miss Leigh's parents.

The order of the court gives the adopted woman the rights of a child and heir, and directs that her duties shall be those of a child to its parents.

MILL SAFES BLOWN OPEN

Nervy Robbers Then Make a Man Furnish Them With Food

Lowell, Mass., June 20.—Four masked men, riding in a high-power automobile, blew open the safes in the offices of the Abbott woolen mills in Grantville and Forge Mills. They secured about $500.

After the safe-blowing they went to the home of Victor Pigeon and, routing him out of bed, commanded him to furnish them with something to eat. Pigeon did so, and after his guests had gone back to bed and slept without sounding an alarm.

A FAIR JUNE BRIDE

Now Daughter-in-Law of Our Ex-President

ROOSEVELT, JR., CLAIMS BRIDE

Son of Former President

Weds Eleanor Alexander

CEREMONY AT NEW YORK

Thousands of Pinks, White Blossoms, Roses and Other June Flowers Transform Presbyterian Church into Miniature Fairyland—Bride's Gown of White Satin and Old Point Lace—Attendants Clad in White Chiffon

New York, June 20.—The brilliant wedding of Miss Eleanor B. Alexander, only daughter of Mrs. Henry A. Alexander, to Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., took place this afternoon in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Miss Alexander's attendants were Mrs. Snowden A. Farnestock, at whose recent wedding Miss Alexander was the chief bridesmaid; also her cousins, the Misses Harriet and Janetta Alexander; Miss Jean W. Dolan, and Miss Jessie Millington-Drake.

Kermit Roosevelt was best man for the former Thompsonville, Conn., carpet worker who, though son of the former President of the United States, engaged in manual labor at $18 a week.

The ushers were George E. Roosevelt and Monroe D. Robinson, cousins of Roosevelt; Francis Roche, Hamilton Fish, Jr., Fulton Cutler, John W. Cutler, Grafton Chapman, E. M. Gilbert and Elliot Cutler.

There was an elaborate scheme of decoration in the church. There were thousands of pinks and white blossoms, roses, lilies of the valley and varicolored peonies.

The main aisle was wholly in white, with clusters of roses and lilies laid at each individual pew. This scheme extended to the altar, where the steps were profusely carpeted with lilies of the valley and bride roses. The prie dieu of white satin displayed a festoon of bride roses and above this was an arch of white flowers in combination.

Up to the organ loft this decoration was carried, surmounted with large masses of pink rambling roses. Great pushes of these rare roses, against a background of palms, were set on either side of the organ loft.

Festoons of roses graced the columns on each side of the church and masses of ferns and roses lay at the base of each window.

Dull pink and pale blues of pastel shades were the dominating colors of the costumes worn by Miss Alexander's attendants, and these carried flowers to correspond, pink roses and forget-me-nots.

The bride wore a gown of conventional white satin and old point lace with a veil of tulle. The lace was used on the bodice and sleeves. The white satin of the dress was not the old-fashioned kind, but what the French now call "tulle couple," of the softest variety obtainable. A few sprays of orange blossoms were artlessly caught in the bride's veil.

The gowns of the bride's attendants were made in the same establishment where that of Miss Alexander was built. White chiffon was used, painted in the floral designs sent to Paris some time ago. The hats were in picture effects, in line with the color scheme of the frocks.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., although but 23 years of age, has already had an eventful career. He first became known to the general public through the newspapers when he entered Groton school to prepare for Harvard. Nov. 15, 1902, he was forced to leave Groton on account of trouble with his eyes.

In 1906 he entered Harvard university. In September, 1906, he accompanied the president on a hunting trip after bears in the wilds of the Rockies.

While at Harvard he was very studious, completing his course in three years and graduating bachelor of arts cum laude.

Young Roosevelt went to work as a wool sorter at Thompsonville, Conn., Oct. 1, 1908, at $5 a week. The following month considerable attention was attracted by his order for the installation of a $500 bathroom in his boarding place. He cast his first vote at Oyster Bay, Nov. 3, 1908, in company with his father.

Young Teddy is known as an expert horseman, a canoeist of no mean merits, and on April 22, 1908, participated in a balloon ascension at Washington.

His engagement to Miss Alexander, the chum of his sister Ethel, who enjoys the distinction of being the matchmaker in the case, was announced Feb. 10 of the present year.

Miss Alexander is 21 years old and resides with her mother at 42 West Forty-seventh street. Her father, Henry A. Alexander, was formerly a New York lawyer, but has for several years resided in Paris, where he is counsel for the American embassy.

OUT OF PUBLIC EYE THROUGH SUMMER

Roosevelt Will Tour the Country During the Autumn

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 20.—Yesterday was Theodore Roosevelt's first day of rest in months. The retiring privacy is a delight to him, and he made it known that it is his desire to drop just as far out of public sight as the public will let him. In the autumn he will make a tour of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt went to Christ church in Oyster Bay in the morning and took a long walk in the afternoon. Senator Lodge and Representative Longworth were at Sagamore Hill all day and in the afternoon Secretary Meyer came for a visit. Roosevelt took an early train for New York today to attend the wedding of his son and Miss Alexander.

On Wednesday he will visit his editorial office in New York.

IS ONCE MORE ALONE

Clara Ward, Once Noted Beauty, Is Deserted by Her Third Husband

Paris, June 20.—Clara Ward, formerly Princess Chimay and later the wife of Gipsy Bandmaster Rigo, is again in trouble. This time she is a complaining wife, who says her husband, Peppino Ricciardi, formerly an Italian stationmaster, has heartlessly deserted her.

The once fair American would not be recognized by friends of other days, or even by those who knew her five years ago. She has grown stout and gross, hardly a trace of her former beauty being left.

The much beret Miss Ward, according to The Matin, in which she relates her woes, says that if Ricciardi does not return she will seek another husband as soon as she can secure a divorce.

SUICIDE IN A STABLE

Hostler Evidently Intended to Also Take Life of a Woman Friend

Portland, Me., June 20.—An attempted murder and then suicide in the solution entertained by the police officials here as the result of the autopsy performed upon the body of Walter G. Hauscomb, who was found dead in a heavy stable at Gorham with the unconscious form of Mrs. May Stewart. The result of the autopsy therefore disposes of the theory that a third party may have been concerned in the tragedy.

Mrs. Stewart, who was shot in the head, is in a critical condition. The woman had been separated from her husband for some time and had been on friendly terms, it is said, with Hauscomb, who was a hostler.

Congress Cuts Lawyer's Fee

Washington, June 20.—Resisting as extortionate a proposed appropriation of $5000 for legal services engaged to defend the house committee on printing against a charge of violating a contract made with the Valley Paper company of Holyoke, Mass., the house cut down the payment for such services to $1500.

ROOSEVELT'S METHODS

'One of the bright newspaper correspondents at Washington has sent out the following:

"Any member of the house who, for a time, was puzzled about the receipt of letters from the former president by regulars and insurgents alike. I am willing to wager," said this member, "that not less than seventy members have received letters from the colonel to the effect that he would like to see them after his return. The first man to receive such a letter might be excused for believing that of this entire Republican membership he had been elected as the one man best able to portray the scenes which have been enacted during his absence. But permit me to say that this Roosevelt letter business is becoming monotonous. I have seen insurgents going around with Roosevelt letters and I have seen identical communications in the possession of regulars. Is it possible that we have forgotten the political sagacity of Col. Roosevelt? Did he ever go on the say-so of one man, or two men, or three men? He did not. He is at the old game of bounding out the sentiment and when he gets it he will act and not before."

That reminds us of a story lately circulated about Hannibal Hamlin, who was vice president in Lincoln's first term, and who, on being asked the secret of his success as a political leader, drawled the reply—"Well, I look over my shoulder once in a while and see how they want to be led."

Mr. Roosevelt is certainly the most successful man of this generation in grasping the "psychological moments" and opportunities for appeals to public sentiment. Isn't this because he is this generation's keenest representative of the Hamlin school of politicians? Does he really form and create new sentiment? Rather, does he not voice sentiment already existent but not expressed?

BIRDEYE VIEWS

If, as the leading papers claim, John A. Dix, the new chairman of the New York Democratic state committee is free from entanglements with the Tammany forces, the movement for a strong and clean Democratic organization in New York state has substantially advanced since its inauguration at the mass meeting in Saratoga. Such an advance is really a question for grave doubt.

The Massachusetts legislature, which adjourned last week, evidently found Mellen's railroad problems to be pretty hard nuts to crack.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The First 1912 Platform
Those who think of Mayor Gaynor as a probable candidate for president will find in his address to the students of St. John's college, Annapolis, Md., the planks of a party platform, although he did not label them as such.

1. He would exterminate political corruption. So staunch is he in that cause that he advised the graduates to be fanatics, if possible, on the point of honesty.
2. He would have the present tariff laws readjusted. Hence it is safe to call him a tariff reformer.
3. He would enforce the laws against rebating.
4. He is against monopolies, but seems to think that the abolition of robates would abolish monopoly and give us that competition whereby some think we may be saved.

5. He evidently believes in the quantitative theory of money, and thus is consistent with the Judge Gaynor of 1896 who supported Mr. Bryan.
6. High prices, as a result of an increased output of gold, he does not regard as an evil. High prices, if normal, that is, the result of natural causes, may be good instead of bad. High prices uncaused by monopolies mean prosperity; low prices mean hard times.

The foregoing planks do not make a very radical platform. Neither do they make an ultra-conservative one. —Boston Globe.

Safe and Sound

The experiment of a full enforcement of the law regulating the observance of Bunker Hill day in Charlestown yesterday was highly encouraging. The fire department was not overworked; the hospitals were not crowded with child patients lacking fingers or eyes or noses. It was a peaceable day, and yet it was characteristically patriotic.

Perhaps the most generally notable feature was the absence of hounding—that insensate innovation of recent years. Undoubtedly the inclemency of the weather had something to do with it; but credit must nevertheless be given the police department for suppressing the tendency towards offensive demonstrations.

The Glorious Fourth is coming. This will offer the supreme test of sanity. —Boston Post.

HAMPTON

The 100th anniversary of founding of Hampton academy was appropriately observed on Friday in a pouring rain, yet the low hanging clouds and leaden sky did not apparently affect the attendance, and the town hall where the exercises were held was filled with old grads.

The program of the day was opened at 11 o'clock, when a procession composed of the academy alumni marched from the town hall to the old "village green," where two boulders of granite were dedicated, one to the academy building, which stood here in 1853, and another to the old log meeting house which stood nearby.

The boulders were of ample proportions, inscribed in letters of bronze. The one dedicated to the meeting house read: "This boulder stands near the site of the log meeting house of the town of Hampton, built soon after the settlement in 1638. Three subsequent church buildings were erected on this meeting house green." The one in memoriam to the old academy bore inscriptions of similar reading in substance, and stating that the first building was burned in 1853.

The addresses were by Bartlett Hardy Weston of Georgetown, Mass., one of the early principals of the academy, being at the head in the years of 1864, '67 and '68, and also by the present principal, Charles J. Ross. The speakers were introduced by Lewis Perkins, president of the alumni, and the boulders were unveiled by Miss Frances A. Nudd, a graduate with this year's class, and also a daughter of one of the first graduates.

The alumni association dinner was held at 1 o'clock in the upper hall. The president of the alumni presided, and the other officers besides many of the different members spoke, words of interest.

The officers of the association are: President Lewis Perkins; vice president, Ernest G. Cole; secretary, Mrs. Lucy A. Marston; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah M. Lane.

The historical address was written by the Rev. Bartlett Hardy Weston but was read by Miss Annie M. Cole, one of the present faculty members. It was replete with historical facts from the career of the founder, the Rev. Josiah Webster, down to the present day.

The present faculty is: Principal, Charles J. Ross; assistants, Miss Annie M. Cole, Miss Jessie Waterman and Frances J. Perkins.
Hampton academy is one of the oldest educational institutions with the exception of Phillips-Exeter academy in this section of the state, and in age is exceeded by only a few through the state.

The closing sentence of the address was, "May the glory of the former days be transformed into the radiance of the future."

A part of the program was the musical selection rendered by the Xonian orchestra of Exeter.

Miss Lucy Marston read a historical poem which was most appropriate to the occasion. The reading of the poem was followed by an address by the Rev. Nicholas Van Der Pyl, pastor of the Central Congregational church of Haverhill.

The afternoon meeting brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and music by the orchestra.

The hall was decorated by the graduating class, which held its commemorative exercises last week, and was composed of eight members. There

Tablet Commemorating the Birth of the Republican Party

College professors cannot agree as to the wording on the bronze tablet unveiled by President Taft at Monroe, Mich., recently. The professors do not like the language used by the committee in calling attention to the spot where the Republican party was born. Former President Eliot of Harvard took exception to what he termed the "gushing efforts of telling a simple statement." He preferred plain words and found fault with "Under the Oaks." In the meantime the stone and tablet attract scores of tourists to the little city of Monroe.

Send in Their Names on the Blank Printed in This Paper

The committee on the return of the Sons and Daughters are anxious that names of former Portsmouth people who are now residing in all parts of the country should be handed in as early as possible, and it is the intention of the committee that no native or former resident be overlooked.

The Herald, every day of late, has been handed several names by the committee. To help the committee on invitations and the public, this paper will print the following blank daily, which can be filled out and returned to this office, and we will see that it gets into the hands of the committee.

ALLOWED TO TAKE OLD CHARTER NUMBER

The First National Bank has been notified that they will be allowed to take their original charter number. President J. K. Bates was in Washington a short time ago and he took the matter up with the Comptroller of Currency and they have been given a favorable decision.
The First National Bank was organized in 1863 under the charter number 19. In 1882 the charter expired and under the law as it then was, the bank had to reorganize. To take the charter number that was in order, which was 2672. For a long time now the bank officials have been trying to get their old charter number back, as it has always remained vacant and when taken up this time with the Comptroller of the Currency and as it was shown that the bank was in continuous existence from 1863, the date of its original charter, he ruled that they were entitled to the use of their original charter number, and hereafter this number will be used by the bank.

HOME FROM TRIP AROUND WORLD

Mr. Fred M. Ward and daughter, Miss Florence, returned on Sunday from New York, after completing a trip around the world on which they started last January. They came from England on the steamship Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, and were fellow passengers with ex-President Roosevelt, and of course were eye-witnesses of the stirring scenes and of the great demonstration paid the ex-President in New York harbor. Mr. Ward states that it was not overdrawn by any of the newspaper stories and if anything it was greater than they pictured it.

Mr. Ward and his daughter went from this city to San Francisco and there took the steamer, visiting the Hawaiian islands, the Philippines, Japan and then on to India, etc. They left the steamer at Naples and came north through Europe and sailed for home from Southampton. He reports a very interesting trip and when asked by one of his friends on his return what was the best city he had seen, he promptly replied, "Portsmouth."

EUROPE IS STRIPPED CLEAN

The Great Circus Performers Have Come to America

As far as circus talent is concerned Europe has been stripped cleaner than a whistle. Every headliner of any note, every artist who has created a novelty, and every clown of distinction, was engaged last winter by the foreign agents of Adam Forepaugh and Sells Bros. for this season's tour of the reorganized show. No such company of illustrious men and women was ever before assembled.

A list of the names of the 350 performers would mean very little to American show-goers, for the reason that not a one of them ever appeared before in this country. Those who are familiar with foreign affairs will no doubt recognize most of them.

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, but signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours,

HIGH SCHOOL

PROPHECY

Fates of The Members of The Class of 1910

The poem prophecy for Portsmouth High school class of 1910, was published in this paper on Saturday, and the publication of the prose prophecy was promised. The latter is given below:

Class Prophecy 1910

As I gazed into the starry heavens a night or two ago, searching sleepily for the comet, a vision met my eyes that made me start back in surprise, for a brilliant light appeared; it was not the moon nor the Milky Way, but a vision of our class president, John Davis, standing in a court room nobly pleading for a larger alimony for, guess whom, the poet, Dorothy Adams. I wonder what her name is now?

The light slowly faded, another took its place, it was Jennie Akersley in the fever of excitement, dashing off the words "Plug, plug, keep on a-plugging." It was the brilliant beginning of an ode to the telephone, destined to make her famous the world over.

Old time associations told me what the next picture would be. It was Avis Varrall, teaching elementary Latin, and exceedingly long names to refractory pupils. Poor Avis! I had supposed that that would be Mary Williams' rate, but Mary was not born to teach. I saw her at her home in Washington, near the Johnsons, entertaining distinguished guests with her old-time hospitality.

The light in the heavens grew brighter, dimming the gay lights of the dance hall as I recognized Luther Pattie, now a famous explorer, the genuine discoverer of the North Pole, gracefully asking Miss Helene Garrett, the popular society leader, for a dance.

Could that be a thunder cloud in the sky and the distant roar of thunder? No, but much more terrible sight, it was a battlefield and Marie Brewster in white cap and gown, aiding the injured. There I saw Capt. Carl Hill and brave Ralph MacDonald fighting nobly for their cause. The soldiers of the opposing army were women fighting bravely for Woman's Suffrage. Nellie Winn, Gladys Reed and Agnes Connors were all distinguished officers in this fierce band of Amazon.

Can that man before the judge be Remick Laighton? Remick arrested? Yes, but I found he was acquitted with a small fine for exceeding the auto speed limit, a crime which may be easily excused.

Next, the Milky Way became a fashionable street in New York. On one of the dazzling signs I read "Holland's." A glance within assured me that Gertrude had become an extremely fashionable milliner.

At last I felt sure I had seen the comet, but as it approached I saw that it was an airship containing Thomas Wiggin, the sole proprietor of the "Aerial Blue Bonnet Establishment." Tom had grown rich in this all-absorbing business.

The scenes beyond me in the heavens became more visible and I recognized Waller Jenkins, an astronomer, staring through his powerful instruments into the sky.

In the magnificent public library at old Strawberry Bank, donated lately by Alfred Gray, the learned Harvard professor, I saw Ada Muchmore enthroned as librarian. At one of the reading tables, a familiar figure pored over a heavy volume of theology. It was Philip Yeaton, gaining material for his Sunday sermon.

A sudden flash and my attention was drawn to the East. An astounding vision met my eyes, it was Millard Gardner promenading Revere Beach with a girl. His ice cream and peanut stand was left quite deserted to the mercy of several hungry boys. A lady whom I recognized as our old friend, Sadie Barsanlee, now capricious, seized one poor youngster and chastized him severely. It was indeed Sadie, quite domesticated. I discovered that the startling flash was Roy Littlefield, taking a flash light picture of the Hodgdon house, at Revere. Later, I saw Roy, now a famous photographer and Chauncey, the pompous proprietor of the "Hodgdon," talking about old times. How I longed to join their conversation.

Voices of Angels reached me next, and as I listened, I recognized the voice of Harold Marston, the wonderful tenor singer, singing in grand opera and for phonograph companies. His salary is enormous.

A shooting star next attracted my attention. It was the headlight of a train which bore the great railroad magnate, Arnold Leavitt, through the country.

A row of stars, which I had formerly believed to be Orion's belt, now became a brilliant row of electric signs. One in particular was noticeable. It was "Paul Hayes, Modiste." The room inside was thronged with ladies. We all remember Poco's charming smiles and excellent taste of old.

Sweet strains of music floated down to me. Could it be the sound of harps? No, it was Hiram Waterhouse and his orchestra, in one of America's greatest opera houses. William Mercer was starring in the same opera as a bass singer.

I next recognized Ralph Day and Elbridge Knox, partners in a large milk concern. They were very wealthy and left the management of the business to their trusty man, Albert Bennett.

The light of their cheery fireplaces faded and a shining black kitchen range took its place. Over it bent, Mary Rand, flushed and excited, trying in vain to boil water without burning it. Poor Mary! Cooking was something she vowed she would not attempt.

This sight was so unusual that I pinched myself to see if I were really awake. I slowly opened my eyes and tumbled into bed again. The comet, unseen by me, had long since faded away.

MARY L. RAND.

HOME FROM AYRSHIRE SALE

C. Hiram Hayes Got Some Big Prices for His Cattle

"Uncle" C. Hiram Hayes dropped in this morning to tell about the big Ayrshire stock combination June sale at Worcester, from which he had just returned. He was in "very good spirits."

He disposed of part of his consignment of twelve head at private sale, so he is somewhat chary about giving figures, but he did say that he got the record prices for his calf, bull calf and yearling heifer.

He also got the top price on six heifers less than eighteen months old, the group averaging fourteen and one-half months, and going under the hammer at $770.

The last arrival at the sale was a four month heifer calf from Hayes farm, and she was led out at 4:30 o'clock in a pouring rain. She was started at $20 and jacked up by $10 jumps to $100 and then by $5 jumps to $125, which proved to be the going figure.

Mr. Hayes says that Hunter from Manville, Ont., was there with ten mature cows and a two year old bull, the herd bringing a total of $6,046, one cow fetching $1,100.

Mr. Hayes went out in his barn on Sunday, after his return, and picked out the young stock for next year's sale, at which, he says, Hayes farm will be better represented than it was this year.

The class of Miss Alice Hatch at the Whipple school were her guests on Saturday with a picnic at Stratham hill. They left here on the eleven o'clock car and while they were forced to seek shelter during the shower, which was very heavy at Stratham they all had a good time and returned to this city at 5:30 tired but happy.

One Sunday drunk and two hold overs from Saturday night were the occupants of the police station last night.

FROM EXETER

Academy Student Was Drowned

Real Estate Deals of First Church

Exeter, June 20.—A distressing event for the students of the academy here was the drowning on Sunday afternoon of Horace D. Ward, 12, of Providence, R. I. With his classmates Willard M. Solleck of Providence and Webster E. Wing, 13, of Duluth, Minn., he was swimming in Exeter river above the second bridge. The trio, none expert swimmers, had crossed the stream, much swollen by rain, and were returning when Ward disappeared. As he rose his companions helped but could not hold him up, and a second attempt proved futile. From all accounts all were exhausted and had a narrow escape. Apparently Ward did not rise a second time. Physicians believe he was attacked by cramps. The accident happened about 4:15 o'clock. Help was summoned from the village and men in boats soon began to drag the river bed. About 5:30 o'clock the body was found by Andrew Givine. Until 8 o'clock Dr. Walter Tuttle made every possible attempt at resuscitation, but failed. Medical examiner John G. Knowlton was present. Ward entered the academy last year and was consequently not widely known. The body was placed in the school infirmary.

A heavy thunder shower passed over here Saturday at the noon hour, and the lightning was sharp and the thunder heavy. A bolt struck at the residence of John Flannigan on Jory hill, and ripped things up to quite an extent. It passed down near the chimney and tore up the attic floor, besides breaking up the chimney.

Shingles from the roof were scattered about the yard. The occupants of the house know nothing of the cause of the bolt came within such proximity, and the first intelligence of the strike was from the shingles scattered around the doorway. Fortunately there was no fire set. The rain fell in torrents, and the streets were badly washed in places. The fire alarm wires were put out in order, and the alarm was rung in by a crossed wire.

A pleasing entertainment was held at the academy Saturday, when Mrs. Stella Hadden Alexander of Wellesley, Mass., rendered a piano recital to a large audience composed of students and townspeople. Mrs. Alexander has a son who is a member of the graduating class this week, and she is a teacher of music at Dana hall.

The First church has bought a tract of land from Frank C. Higgins, which stands in the rear of the church yard, and also sold land in Court street which was property of the church, the purchasers being William H. C. Folsom, Judge John E. Young, and Edwin G. Eastman.

TOWN TALK

A Few Matters Pertinent to the Time, Place And Men

For the past nine months there has been a case of "can pushing" in this city that has greatly differed from usual procedure. No doubt many of our citizens are acquainted with Charles Staples of Middle Street and have seen him almost daily carrying a can as he wended his way to the North end. Well, to make a long story short, Mr. Staples' helpmate of many years, was taken ill nine months ago and the attending physician ordered that she should be given salt water baths, so daily, rain or shine, Mr. Staples has proceeded to the river front and secured a supply of salt water for that purpose. All who know the estimable couple earnestly hope that Mr. Staples' efforts to relieve his wife's suffering will not be without success.

That our older residents still cherish a love for the liberty pole and the flag that proudly floats from it on all state occasions, was shown on Flag day. William H. Phinney, who is the custodian of the flag had made ready to hoist the flag to the mast head when two venerable citizens, Edward J. Moulton, now in his 85th year and Josiah F. Adams, aged 80 years, expressed desire to hoist the flag which was accorded them. When the flag floated to the breeze at the head of the staff I doubt if there was two more pleased men in the city than Messrs. Moulton and Adams. This surely must have been a lesson in patriotism for those who witnessed the flag raising.

The writer had a pleasant chat recently with Samuel A. Hawkes, the veteran railroad engineer, who recently celebrated his 83rd birthday. Mr. Hawkes' father was a shoemaker and wanted his son to learn that trade, but it was not to the liking of the young man and he being attracted to railroad work at that time was being built into this city, became imbued with the desire to be a railroad

Soak the clothes over-night.

It loosens the dirt and makes the work of washing very much easier.

Use three tubs, one for table linen, one for bed and body linen, one for the soiled towels and cloths.

Wet the clothes, rub Lenox Soap Solution over the soiled parts, fold and roll each piece by itself, pack in a tub, cover with warm soapy water and let stand over-night.

TO MAKE LENOX SOAP SOLUTION:—Take a cake of Lenox Soap, cut it into small pieces, dissolve these in three quarts of boiling water. Keep water at boiling point until a solution is formed.

Lenox Soap Solution does better work than soap; and is more economical, because there is no waste.

man. It was a happy day for him when he was given permission to ride in the cab of the engine that hauled the passenger train from the city of Boston. While on the way he expressed a desire to throw wood into the fire box and he was allowed to do so. A short time afterwards the fireman was taken sick, and Mr. Hawkes was pressed into service. This was the beginning of his career as a railroad man and he ran as a fireman and engineer for 48 years without meeting with an accident. He was the engineer that secured the mail contract for the old Eastern railroad, making a record run against the Boston and Maine and Pittsburgh railroad. He was the first engineer to run a train from this city to Concord over the Portsmouth and Concord railroad and was also the engineer that ran the train that carried the Kearsarge Steamer and the Portsmouth firemen to Boston on the occasion of the big fire Nov. 9 and 10, 1872.

RAILROAD BILL IS LAW

Signed by President Who Now is Considering Statehood Measure.

Washington, June 20.—Two of the most important administration measures, namely the railroad and the statehood bills, were acted upon finally by congress Saturday. The President signed the railroad bill at 10:15 o'clock, but has not yet signed the statehood bill.

Saturday's action was taken by the house, the senate having previously disposed of both of the measures. It was accomplished practically without debate and in record time, not even a roll call being required in the whole procedure.

The railroad bill was the first to receive consideration. Chairman Mann of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, called the conference report from the speaker's table. Brief speeches were made, among them being several by Democrats in expression of their opposition to the railroad legislation as accomplished in conference.

Final action on statehood legislation was accomplished with even greater ease. By reason of pressure from the White house and aided by some diplomatic work by Postmaster General Hitchcock, opposition to the acceptance of the senate amendments to the statehood bill was almost entirely dissipated.

The Democrats were induced to forego their objection by the judicious circulation of a report that if the bill went into conference it might not emerge during the present session. Chairman Hamilton, of the house committee on territories at once realized that the only thing to put the legislation through and not delay the present session, was to agree to the senate amendments, and he welcomed the administration's assistance.

It cannot be stated definitely when Arizona and New Mexico will come into the union under this legislation.

TO HAVE SPECIAL TRAIN

The Boston delegation of Sons and Daughters, have received word from President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine railroad, that they can have a special train to make the trip home to this city on July-fourth. This was good news to the Boston sons, who had been informed that they could not get a special train on a holiday, but would be given a section of the regular train.

TOLD IN A DREAM.

The Message a Dying Girl Conveyed to Her Brother.

This is an absolutely true dream story: A certain young lady, whom we will call Mary, was recovering from illness. The doctor had declared her to be out of danger, and her friends and relatives were rejoicing in the fact. Nevertheless Miss A., receiving a visit one day from a sister, gravely assured her that she was going to die. The sister, who was a nurse, tried to dissuade her from such a statement, but she was so certain that she would die that night and begged her sister to fetch her parents and other relatives to say goodby. "Thinking to humor her, the sister complied. One person was absent from this strange family gathering—a brother, who was at sea and was expected home in a week or two. "But it does not matter," Miss A. quietly observed. "I saw him last night in a dream and said goodbye to him in his cabin." Before the sun rose again Miss A.'s prediction had come true; she was dead. That, however, is not the strangest part of this weird story. When in due time the sailor brother reached port he was met by his other sister, who began to tell him the sad news. "Ah," he interrupted. "You need not tell me! Mary is dead. I knew it, for she came to me one night in my dreams and told me she was going to die and wanted to say goodbye." On comparing dates it was found that the dreams were dreamed on the selfsame night.—London News.

The Sun.

It is computed that the temperature of the sun would be expressed by 18,000 degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer, or about ninety times the temperature of boiling water. This is about five times the temperature that man is able to produce by artificial means. The light given off from the surface of the sun is reckoned as being 3,300 times more intense than that of the molten metal in a Bessemer converter, though that is of an almost blinding brilliancy. Or, if we compare it with the oxyhydrogen flame, the sun sheds a light equal in brilliancy to 146 times the intensity of the limelight.

Plant That Feigns Death.

In South America there is a plant, a species of mimosa, which resorts to death feigning, evidently for the purpose of preventing grass eating animals from eating it. In its natural state this plant has a vivid green hue, but directly it is touched by a human finger or by any living animal it collapses into a tangle of apparently dead and withered stems. Among British wild plants the most sensitive to touch is the insectivorous sundew of English bogs.—London Globe.

Kind Critics.

"How did Jones get such a reputation both as a singer and an artist?" "He sang before the Painters' club and painted pictures for the Musicians' union."—Cleveland Leader.

Three of the Boston Sunday papers had special stories on the Return of the Sons and Daughters to Portsmouth on July fourth.

FROM THE CAPITAL

By CARL SCHOFIELD, Washington Correspondent.

The United States government should consider the question of the superannuated clerks in a broad light regardless of any factional spirit that may prevail among the clerks themselves in their efforts to formulate a plan for the equitable retirement of the aged public service workers. It should not matter in the least with congress that the clerks are divided in opinion as to the best method for the effective and humane clearance of the service of the comparatively intelligent. This is a question that rises far above the wishes of the clerks themselves.

The Government Clerks.

Nothing is plainer in this whole question than the fact that under the present conditions the more capable of the younger employees are constantly looking for opportunities to leave the service with advantage to themselves. They regard the government service as merely a stepping stone to something better.

Yet it is a fact that most of the government clerks are exceptionally faithful to their tasks. They know that there is no opening in the upper ranks for them, with the caveat of exceptions, and they are confronted with the virtual certainty that when they have been incapacitated after years of service they will be dropped as worthless by an ungrateful government. It may be that the hope that the United States will see its need clearly in time to provide a retirement system in season to affect them personally holds some of them in the service.

Changes in Congress.

Although Senators Aldrich and Hale, leaders of the upper branch of congress, do not retire until March, their seats in the senate chamber, which are regarded as most desirable, have been assigned.

The unwritten law of the senate is that the first senator who makes claim on the seat of a departing member obtains possession as soon as it is vacated.

Senator Burkett of Nebraska beat the rest of his Republican colleagues to it when announcement was made by Senator Aldrich of his intended retirement. Senator Doolittle of Iowa was the next to make claim and obtain the seat occupied for so many years by Senator Hale.

A considerable number of members of the house have already given it out they will not seek re-election. The reasons they assign are various. In some cases the political unrest is the real cause.

Among those who are going to step out at the end of this congress, making no effort to remain, are Lowden of Illinois, Cooper of Pennsylvania, Sperry of Connecticut, Reynolds of Pennsylvania, Huff of Pennsylvania, Dawson of Iowa, Jamieson of Iowa, Foss of Massachusetts and Havens of New York.

A Youthful Matron.

Mme. R. de Lima e Silva, wife of the Brazilian charge d'affaires in Washington, is the youngest matron in the diplomatic corps in the national capital. She is only seventeen years old, is strikingly attractive and exceedingly popular. She is the daughter of the Mexican minister to Great Britain and before her wedding had been out of the convent school only a few months. She has large, dark eyes and auburn hair. Until the death of Ambassador Nabuco in Washington last January De Lima e Silva was in London, attached to the Brazilian embassy there. He was engaged to the young Mexican girl only a short time when he was directed to come to Washington. Because of the youth of the girl it had been intended that the couple should wait a year or so before getting married. When, however, De Lima e Silva got orders to come to Washington the couple were married, and their trip to Washington was their honeymoon.

Russian Books at Public Library.

In response to requests for books in their tongue by native Russians living in this city the Public Library announces that sixty volumes of standard Russian works have been received and are ready for distribution. A card catalogue of the books may be consulted at the library. It is stated a number of other orders are outstanding which will bring the collection of standard Russian works up to about 150 volumes.

The New Theater.

Plymouth B. Chase, the lessee of the new theater to be erected by the Higgins family company at Fifteenth and G streets, northwest, on the site of the Higgins House and old Citizens' bank, recently placed on record a lease from the company of that portion of the premises. The building is to be completed Aug. 1, 1912, and the lease begins then for a term of twenty years. The rental for the entire term is $800,000, or $40,000 per year.

Washington Growing.

Washington's phenomenal growth is still on the increase, and 1910 will stand out in red letters as a record breaker in the number of new business buildings and handsome residences. The downward trend of construction returns from some of the other large cities which have been "on the boom" is not reflected in Washington, and those best qualified to hazard an opinion see no signs of a check in the near future. Prosperity has come to stay, at least until the national capital has attained the proportions that naturally pertain to the political and social metropolis of a great nation like ours.

Experiments made in England by the Institution for Infectious Diseases showed that the germs of such diseases as typhoid, diphtheria, tuberculosis and cholera are not destroyed by the process of ironing linen. In Italy the supply of machine guns is still in its infancy. By the end of the year, however, every infantry regiment and every Alpine battalion is to have one gun for training the men. In the fall a beginning is to be made to give every infantry and cavalry regiment one battery of four and every Alpine battalion one battery of two such guns.

Beginning in 1914, every Harvard graduate who receives a degree of A. B. must have a reading knowledge of either French or German. The faculty has decided that it would be unfair to make the requirement effective before all the classes now in the college shall have graduated, so that the entering class of next fall will be the first to be governed by the new plan.

One can hardly imagine Sir Hiram Maxim, who celebrated his seventieth birthday recently, in the prize ring, and yet he confessed that in his young days he thought of adopting a pugilistic career. But when he was fourteen years old his inventive faculty made itself manifest. As a lad of fourteen he invented a wheel hub and a clock-work mousetrap; then he evolved the first incandescent electric lamp. In 1884 a kicking gun gave him the idea which ultimately resulted in the deadly Maxim.

FASHION'S REALM

Newness in Motor Headgear.

A distinctly fetching development in motorcar togs this season is the collapsible bonnet. Unlike some millinery, this article is at once comfortable, practical and pretty; also it can be made of the plainest as well as the most expensive material. The bonnet shown in the photograph is made of brown plush silk. Its construction in general is like that of an old fashioned sunbonnet plus certain up to date indefinable touches. To be entirely correct it should be of the same color as the motorcar, and this applies not only to the body of the bonnet, but to the flowers at the sides, the chiffon strings and the trimmings in general. One of the advantages of the bonnet is that it can be folded into such a small parcel that it can be carried in the pocket.

The Thin Woman.

Don't walk until you are dead tired. Overwalking will make you baggy.

Don't wear black. Black has a tendency to make one slender. Light clothes are the most becoming.

Don't have your finger too close fitting. A full front to your chemise is an immense improvement.

Don't stay up too late at night. Get at least nine hours' good sleep.

Don't wear stripes. Checks, plaids and horizontal effects are better for thin women. They should strive for becoming deceiving effects if they study dressing at all.

Don't forget that a well rounded figure makes you look younger and is considered a mark of beauty. The starchy foods, massage, moderate exercise, rest and sleep will produce this.

Don't wear a large, broad brimmed hat. It looks out of proportion, especially as the face of a slender girl is usually small. A moderate sized or small hat will be found much better.

Don't fall to look dainty. Slender women can always do that, and the most delightful word that can be applied to a woman is the word "dainty." A woman may be stylish, well dressed, good looking and half a hundred other things without any considerable amount of trouble, but to live up to the requirements of the word "dainty" means something more. It means muslin uncrumpled, ruffles fresh from laundering, laces unspotted from the world and everything else. It means water and soap in abundance, together with unceasing care. But it is worth it.

New Neckwear.

The new blouse collars are round and straight, this season.

There are none of the "ear rests" that were so frequent last year.

The prevalence of the Dutch neck has brought out many pretty collar forms.

One of the most popular of these is the plaited frill or ruff.

This, while smart, is rather hard to wear. It does not look well over a coat and may not be worn by a person with too long a throat line.

It is a fact that with this faces this ruff is often becoming when worn fastened to the back instead of the front, as usual.

The newest thing in plaited collars is of white batiste, scalloped in a color, and with a tiny turnover, also scalloped in the color along the top.

Milady's Veil.

The newest is the wash silk face variety.

This is, cobwebby and silky and drapes better than the cotton lace veil. Cotton lace veils are much worn, however, and come in many pretty patterns.

Both the spider mesh and the large octagon patterns are popular.

The latter is unbecoming to many faces, however, having a tendency to coarsen some women's features.

Russian nets are staple and seem to sell better than the dotted veils.

Few black and white veils are worn except in the extreme novelties.

An Artistic Centerpiece.

The hostess who is looking for a novel decoration for her luncheon table will want to remember that wonders can be worked with dandelion seed balls when they are obtainable.

Combined with maidenhair ferns and arranged in a delicate glass vase the effect is charming. Such a decoration will last several days and is decidedly artistic and original.

Hints on Color.

Blue suits the golden haired girl and makes her hair look more beautiful, but it seems to destroy all the beauty of some gray eyed maids, and it is most unbecoming to those of a sallow complexion.

ARAB MANNERS.

Life in the Tents of the Roving and Eloquent Bedouins.

"By living with the Arabs, doing as they did and moving with them in their migrations," writes Douglas Carruthers in the Geographical Journal, "I obtained an insight into their mode of life and customs. Things move slowly in the east, and I spent fourteen days in buying three camels. But the time was not wasted. I studied Arab manners, learned more or less how to eat with my hands, how to wear the Arab costume with some comfort, how to drink coffee in a Arab, and, most difficult of all, how to sit still all day long doing nothing. I found this last most trying, more especially because it was cold. A Bedouin tent is a drafty place at the best, but in midwinter it is almost unbearable. On two occasions there was snow on the desert.

"We used to feed out of a huge round dish, ten of us at a time. The fire was camels' milk and bread in the morning, and in the evening we ate meat and rice cooked with an enormous amount of fat. During the day we appeased our hunger by sipping strong black coffee. At night there was always a large group of men in the tent of the sheik, and the talk was carried on far into the night.

"Eloquence is a highly prized talent among the Bedouins, and not only would they recite their stories in the most beautiful manner, but on occasion, to the tune of a single stringed violin, they would sing extempore songs for hours on end."

KEEPING HIS RECORDS.

Unusual Business Methods of a Merchant in Western Canada.

In the bookkeeper is recorded a case which clearly comes under the head of "unusual business methods." In a thickly settled prairie district in western Canada, not far from Moose Jaw, a few Canadians had opened up a coal mine, the product of which they sold to the surrounding farmers. Settlers would come in wagons and sleighs and load their own winter's fuel, which cost them from $1 to $2 a ton, according to the run. It was early winter when I first made the acquaintance of this mine and its remarkable "superintendent," and my first reception from this individual was a fierce yell on his part, with the frantic brandishing of a long stick and the words: "What the devil are you doing? Can't you see? Are you stone blind?"

I was literally walking through his books! Since morning—and this was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon—he had been keeping a record of outgoing sleighs and wagons of coal in the snow. About twenty farmers were drawing that day. With his stick he had written the initials of each in a clean spot in the snow and with that same stick had registered the number of tons they had taken away. I had spotted one-half of his "books," and it was an hour before he became at all affable. I was still more astonished when I entered the "superintendent's" little board office. The walls were black with pencil marks, figures and names. A fire would have burned down his "book" of two years past.

Where Microbes Thrive.

The alimentary canal is the most perfect culture tube known to bacteriological science. No part of the body is so densely populated with micro-organisms. It is estimated that in the alimentary canal of the average adult about 120,000,000,000 microbes come into existence every day. They crowd this region so densely that scientists originally believed that they were indispensable to human life. According to a writer in McClure's, Pasteur, who first discovered them, maintained this view, but recent investigations have rather disproved it. There are many animals that exist in perfect health without any intestinal bacteria at all. Polar bears, seals, penguins, eider ducks, arctic reindeer—these and other creatures in the arctic zone have few traces of these organisms.

Not to Be Fooled.

A certain magazine once took to advertising by means of personal letters. A critic got this letter:

Dear Brown—Have you seen article in this month's Trash Magazine? Heavens, can it be true?

But the critic, not to be fooled, sent to the editor of the Trash—in an unstamped envelope, so that double postage would be charged—this answer:

Dear X—I have seen one previous number of the Trash Magazine, and with heart and soul I hope never to see another. This is quite true. BROWN.

Progress.

"How is your boy getting on at school?"

"First rate," answered Farmer Cornsloss. "He's going to be a great help on the farm. He knows the botanical names for cabbage and beans already, and all he has to do now is to learn to raise 'em."—Washington Star.

Too Much of a Target.

Brown—How did you feel, Jones, when the burglar had you covered with his revolver—pretty small, eh? Jones—Small! Great Scott, no! I felt as big as the side of a house.—Boston Transcript.

A Necessity.

Judge—Why did you burn your barn down just after getting it insured? Farmer—Your honor, a poor man like me can't afford to have a barn and insurance too.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

To Live long It is necessary to live slowly.—Cicero.

POWDER AND GUNS.

Evidence That They Were Used Long Before the Christian Era.

There is abundant evidence that the origin of gunpowder and artillery goes far back in the dim ages of the past.

The Hindu code, compiled long before the Christian era, prohibited the making of war with fire weapons and guns or any kind of firearms. Quintus Curtius informs us that Alexander the Great met with fire weapons in Asia, and Philostratus says that Alexander's conquests were arrested by the use of gunpowder. It is also written that those wise men who lived in the cities of the Ganges "overthrew their enemies with tempests and thunderbolts shot from the walls." Julius Africanus mentions shooting powder in the year 275. It was used in the siege of Constantinople in 608, by the Arabs in 630, at Thessalonica in 694, at the siege of Belgrade in 1073, by the Greeks in naval battle in 1095, by the Arabs against the Iberians in 1147 and at Toulouse in 1218.

It appears to have been generally known throughout civilized Europe as early as 1300, and soon thereafter it made its way into England, where it was manufactured during the reign of Elizabeth, and we learn that a few arms were possessed by the English in 1310 and that they were used at the battle of Crecy in 1346.—Cassell's Magazine.

SHERIDAN'S RUSE.

It Settled the Dramatist's Account With His Wine Merchant.

It is related of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the dramatist and statesman, that, always in debt, he had among his creditors the brothers Chaffiz, who were the partners in a wine firm in 1775.

One day when he was giving a dinner party to some distinguished people Sheridan sent for one of the brothers, told him he was now able to settle his account and invited him to the dinner party, asking him to come before the hour for some private conversation.

Chaffiz arrived early, and he was no sooner in the house than Sheridan sent off a servant with a note to the clerk, desiring him, as Mr. Chaffiz was favoring him with his company, to send as soon as possible three dozen of burgundy, two dozen of claret and two dozen of port, with a dozen of old hock.

The unsuspecting clerk sent the wine, with which the guests were so pleased that they asked where it came from. Sheridan, turning toward Chaffiz, said, "I am indebted to my friend here for all the wine you have tasted and am always proud to recommend him."

It was not until the following morning that Chaffiz realized the double meaning in Sheridan's words. The debt was canceled.

A Queer Fish.

A male fish which hatches the young of its mate is the Chromis paterfamilias. It is found in the Lake of Tiberias, Palestine. Strange to say, this industrious fish hatches its young in its mouth. When the female approaches and draws the eggs into his gills, where they remain until hatched, when they struggle out of their confinement into the parent's mouth. As many as 200 perfect young are sometimes found in the mouth of an adult male. How the fish manages to feed itself without swallowing the young is a mystery. The grown fish is about seven inches long and one and three-quarters wide. Its back is olive green, slant white, and the belly is silver white, marked with green and blue. Near ancient Capernaum some hot springs form a small stream which runs into the lake, and it is in these warm waters that the chromis abounds.

No Common Dog.

Gentleman (to dog dealer)—I gave you a high price for this dog last week because you warranted it to be a good house dog. My house was broken into last night, and the dog never even barked.

Dog Dealer—No, sir; I quite believe you. He was too busy looking for the burglars, so as to be able to identify 'em, to even think of barking. If you was out with this 'ere dog and was to meet 'em burglars he'd know 'em in a minute. He ain't no common barking dog; he's a regular 'tective an' worth his weight in gold, be is.—London Answers.

Not Her Fault.

Mrs. Lapsing was expressing her regret that she had been unable on account of illness to be present at the funeral of a neighbor.

"I always feel," she said, "that I ought to attend the obsequies of a friend, but I just couldn't go."—Chicago Tribune.

Inherited.

"And now," said Professor Longhunter as he greeted Henry Peck, "what shall we make of your little boy—a lecturer? He has a sincere taste for it."

"I know he has," replied the male parent. "He inherits it from his mother."

Dividing Her Weight.

"Don't stand on that delicate table to hang the picture, Martha. It'll break. You're too heavy."

"Oh, no, I'm not, mom. I'll bear me. I'm standing only on one foot."

We are inclined to believe in those whom we do not know because they have never deceived us.—Johnson.

CANNON IS STILL DEFENDING THE RULES

Washington, June 20.—The old rules of the house were defended and the critics of the speaker were severely criticised by Speaker Cannon in a brief speech late in the session of the house Saturday.

Mr. Cannon contended that the operation of the rules as adopted by the 51st congress and as enforced by him never interfered with the will of the majority was obtained on any proposition. He scored newspaper and magazine writers who criticised him, and said they proceeded from a lack of knowledge and upon false premises.

The speaker was greeted with cheers by his republican colleagues when he concluded. Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, one of the lead insurgents, tried to reply, but there was objection and no one had an opportunity to answer the speaker's arguments.

Mr. Cannon's speech was made just after the house had agreed to the conference report on the railroad bill and had accepted the senate amendments to the statehood bill.

The speaker surrendered his gavel to Representative Mann of Illinois and descending to the floor, went to the republican side. He asked unanimous consent to address the house for 10 minutes. There was no protest.

Proceeding slowly, Mr. Cannon said that whoever was speaker of the house, whether for two or eight years, could not escape criticism. He spoke of the 50,000 bills introduced in each congress, all of their advocates demanding consideration.

"Many members introduce bills that they do not want passed," said Mr. Cannon, explaining the troubles that face a speaker.

He said that under the rules, as they were adopted in the 51st congress, it was at any time possible for a majority in the house to legislate. Referring directly to the majority leader, Champ Clark, the speaker suggested that the gentleman from Mississippi would make the best speaker the majority could obtain.

There is only a short time left now before the Fourth and everybody should bring in their list of names for invitations.

THE DEATH DICE.

A Murder Case in Which They Returned a Just Verdict.

The German emperor some time ago presented to the Hohenzollern museum the "death dice" with which one of his ancestors decided a difficult case in the seventeenth century. The history of these dice is generally given as follows:

A young girl had been murdered. Suspicion fell upon two young soldiers, Ralph and Alfred, who were suitors for her hand. They both denied their guilt, and even torture failed to extract a confession from either.

Then Elector Frederick William decided to cut the knot by means of the death dice. The two soldiers should throw for their lives and the loser should be executed as the murderer.

The event was celebrated with great solemnity. Ralph had the first chance and threw sixes, the highest possible number. The dice box was then given to Alfred. He fell on his knees and prayed. Then he rose to his feet and threw the dice with such force that one of them was broken. The whole one showed six, the broken one also gave six on the larger portion, and the fragment split off showed six.

This was a point of thirteen, one beyond Ralph's throw. The audience held its breath in amazement. "God has spoken!" cried the prince.

Ralph, appalled by what he regarded as a sign from heaven, confessed his guilt and was sentenced to death.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Got What She Wanted.

"I can stand for some things, but not for everything," said the clerk as he watched a stylishly dressed young woman leave the store.

"What is the matter?" asked the proprietor, who had walked up nobles.

"That woman who just left, hustled up to the counter and asked to see men's shirts. I showed her every style and color we carry. After inspecting the entire stock she rose and thanked me sweetly, adding: 'I didn't wish to purchase any. You see, I am making my husband some shirts, and I wanted to be sure I was doing them right. My husband is very particular about the finish of his shirts.' And they say married women are so considerate."

"The boss smiled and walked away.—Boston Traveler.

The Beauty of an Heiress.

"You are very pretty," he said to the heiress.

She was a wise girl and realized her own plainness.

"I fancy," she replied, "that my prettiness was inherited along with my grandfather's money."

The Scrap Book

Names For the Four.

Just after the battle of Perryville, in October, 1862, Dr. Savage, a strong Union man, was at one of his appointments in a southern city to baptize some children. There was a large crowd, and a sturdy southern matron brought her four children to the altar. "Name this child," said the Union preacher, laying his hand on the boy's head. "Simon Bolivar Buckner" was the reply, which caused a smile to come over the congregation, but the brave preacher went on with his duty.

"Name this child," taking the next in order. "Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard" And the same grew into a sneaker, while Dr. Savage became red in the face. He baptized the young namesake of the soldier and went on with the ceremony.

"Name this one," he gasped, reaching for the third. "Albert Sidney Johnston," came the answer. The smile became audible and the preacher apologized.

Having a sigh of relief, he took the fourth child, a little girl, whose gender he fondly supposed would preclude a continuation of heroic reproduction and said, "Name this child." "Mary Stonewall Jackson Lee," came the response that set the congregation in a stir, while the Union priest thought he had held in his arms the whole southern confederacy.

Forbearance.

Just then named all the birds without a yawn.

Loved the wood rose and left it on its stalk.

At rich men's tables eaten bread and pulse.

Unharmless, faced danger with a heart of trust.

And loved so well, a high behavior in man or maid that thou from speech refrain.

Nobility, more nobly to repay? Oh, be my friend and teach me to be thine!

—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Redundant.

Joseph was an excellent cook, but he was not what might be called an accomplished literary man. At the same time he conceived the idea that a cookery book from his pen would fill a long felt want. He set to work; but, feeling that perhaps he had made some mistakes in composition, he submitted the work to a prominent literary critic, who promised to go through the work and correct it where necessary.

After a day or two he brought it back.

"Well," he said, "it's all right so far as I can see, but I rather fancy you've been a little superfluous in your recipe for lemon pudding."

"Have I? How's that?"

"Well, you see, you say here, 'Then sit on a hot stove and stir constantly.' Now, I really do not see how any one is going to sit on a hot stove without stirring constantly. So I think you can do without that sentence, don't you know?"

Bewildering Response.

Aunt Martha and down her weekly newspaper and, assuming a positive attitude, addressed her husband.

"Josh," she said, "I don't see how it is those folks get paid a lot of money for not lifting a hand. As an example, this paper tells how a certain celebrated tenor was paid a thousand dollars just for appearing at a concert in Chicago."

"I've read such things afore, and they turn me a-scratchin' my head, too," rejoined Uncle Josh with a sigh. "Why, only a couple of weeks ago, I read where a well known prizefighter was offered $10,000 simply to meet another fighter in his own town!"—Lippincott's.

His Hobby.

A tourist passing through an English village churchyard was much astonished to see graven on a tombstone a list of feminine names as follows:

Mary I., Elizabeth, Mary II., Anne, Katherine I., Katherine II.

"Goddess gracious!" exclaimed he to an old sexton who was digging a grave not far off. "I wasn't aware there were any queens buried in this part of the country, least of all in such an outlying place as this."

A Fine Job of Laying Track
The eye of the railroad man is certainly attracted to the latest addition to the yard railroad system, in a piece of track extending from the main line along the dump to the site for the new hospital. The line is the work of Foreman James McWilliams and his crew and it's safe to state that it would be hard to find track work in or outside a government reservation that can beat it. The men who labored on this extension feel quite proud of the job and they have a right to throw a few bouquets at themselves.

Hist Back for Repairs

The gunboat Hist, Commander Armistead Rust, which has been on survey duty at Manzanillo, on coast survey, arrived at the yard early this morning via Norfolk, where a stop of six hours was made to coal ship. Her crew are as berries and in excellent health. The ship comes for her annual overhauling and repairs, and will likely remain here until November or later.

A Quiet Reunion

George Fletcher, a well known jeweler of Brockton, Mass., is passing a few days with his father, Chief Carpenter J. B. Fletcher at the yard. A quiet reunion of the family was observed on Sunday.

HORSE KILLED

As a Result of a Fall in a
Barrel

C. R. Pearson is mourning the loss of a pet brood mare, which met death through a peculiar accident on Saturday. The animal, which had been pastured at Newington, fell into a barrel sunk in the field for watering purposes, and was so injured internally that a veterinarian was called to end her life.

The leg of the horse had been in the barrel all night and as the poor beast could not reach bottom with its feet, it was obliged to stay in the position and suffer until relief came. To add to the sad mishap, a young colt five weeks old, was left behind. The owner claims that it would take a good bank account to cause him to part with the pet horse.
